After speaking with her yesterday I felt better about it.

That being said she's definitely an artist (very passionate), but seemed to have a better grasp of how everything works than say Artwalk does.

Let me know what happens.

Thanks,
Aaron

Yeah, she is trying to close down Lankershim. So I need to know that she has the capability to actually pull this off. It seems like she has only been planning it for a few weeks. So I cannot imagine it is that well put together, and that concerns me.

Is it a street closure?

I have, they put in an application, but they will not be getting permits until they come to our office and let us know what their plans are. They need to do so ASAP. If you talk to them, let them know.
